By Megan Carter

Polynesian dancers, Aztec dancers, Rebel Karate School, and a police dog demonstration highlighted the 9th Annual International Family Festival activities last Saturday in front of the Rialto City Hall complex.

The booths were representative of the community including Assemblywoman Wilmer Amina Carter and Senator Gloria McLeod. Councilwoman Deborah Robinson was out and she gave away savings piggy banks had crafts and said that she wouldn't miss the wonderful event. Agreeing with her was City Clerk Barbara McGee, "Look at the people, look at the kids, this is a great day!"

The festival, developed by the city's Human Relations Commission nine years ago, celebrates the diversity of the community. It is touted, as a day of fun, games and entertainment and most importantly everything is free. "It is a time that families can come out and celebrate," said Robert Bolton from his Y-CHOW booth. He even brought his grandchild. The Library was enticing attendees with 25 cent books. Lines to the food booths attested to the great food that was available to purchase. The city departments were eagerly involved and everyone seemed to be happy with the activities. Children walked around in orange work aprons ever so carefully holding the plants they planted in the craft workshop.

Al Baker was documenting it all for KRTO Channel 3.

This year's fair was a joint effort between the Annual Pollution Fair and the Annual Redevelopment Agency Housing Fair. All city agencies including the fire department and police department were working together for the good of the residents of the city.

Thousands came out to celebrate individual cultures collectively.

State of Education Address

SAN BERNARDINO

By Regina Brown Wilson

San Bernardino County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Herb Fischer released his priorities for the 2007/08 school year while highlighting two schools that have exited out of Year 4 "Program Improvement".

Karen Redfield, Principal of Westside Park Elementary in Adelanto, and Mark McLaughlin Principal of Maple Elementary in Fontana have successfully boosted their test scores, enough to exit the federal intervention program. The intervention program was designed under the "No Child Left Behind Act" for troubled schools as a intervention index. "Getting out of Year 4 is something the whole school and community can celebrate," said Christine McGrew spokeswoman for the Superintendent's Office.

Out of approximately 532 schools in San Bernardino County 350 are Title 1 schools which receive federal funds. Currently there are 146 schools in the county reviewing what Maple Elementary and Westside Park did to get out of Program Improvement.

"People where calling me asking me what program we used, I had to tell them there was no program, just hard work and our dedicated staff that worked with the stu-

Cries and wails from the shofar horn echoed through the San Geronio Pass symbolizing a 5,000 years old Jewish ritual of gathering the people and awakening the souls.

In a showing of unity, dozens of marchers walked 1.3 miles Saturday, most wearing white tee-shirts embossed with the Unity March 2007 symbol of three intertwined arms.

They joined hundreds gathered at the Banning High School athletic field to hear

Rev. Bernice Albertine King, the youngest daughter of the late civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Coretta Scott

King, call on people to be just, merciful and live a life of agape love.

"We live in a very selfish nation and world," said King. "Women, children and men are suffering from violence - terror, abuse, torture and extreme poverty. If we continue in this vein as a nation, we will self destruct."

Like the classic Baptist preacher King delivered a passionate call for self examination; her words piercing and strong, her hands punctuat-

Critics: Hard Line Fills Jails with Vulnerable Black and Latino Juveniles Riverside Gets Gang Injunction

With violent crime on the rise, Riverside County District Attorney Rod Pacheco is cracking down on street gangs using a controversial legal tool. One police data over the last decade reveals resulted in the arrest of more than 450,000 Black and Latino juveniles in Los Angeles County alone.

But as Riverside lawmakers prepare to deploy the county's first gang injunction, critics are asking: "Does the practice now in place in 36 states and counties including San Bernardino, San Diego fight crime or fill jails with vulnerable Black and Latino juveniles?"

"The department's "assertive gang suppression" is appropriate for gang members "whose sole purpose is to wreak havoc on the community," argues Los Angeles assistant police chief, Earl C. Paysinger.

Yet, in a study conducted by the Long Beach Press Telegram nearly 80 percent of the members named in that city's injunction and a 1997 order against members of the West Coast Crips, have been convicted of at least one crime since the injunctions were imposed.

Sniff Selected to Head Riverside Sheriff's Department

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By Mary Shelton

It came down to the last vote.

And when Riverside County Supervisor John Tavaglione cast that final vote, former Riverside County Assistant Sheriff, Stanley Sniff became the next sheriff.

Before Tavaglione announced his choice, the board was split 2-2 between Sniff and current under sheriff, Neil Lingle. Supervisors Bob Buster and Roy Wilson cast votes for Lingle while their colleagues Marion Ashley and Jeff Stone voted for Sniff.

Tavaglione praised Lingle. He also expressed his shock in the announcement that Sheriff Bob Doyle had allegedly told Assistant Sheriff Valerie Hill that if he promoted her to that position, she had to promise to retire by the end of 2007.

Hill was one of the five applicants interviewed for the sheriff's position.

"I was shocked and disappointed," Tavaglione said, "Not in her, but in the system."

It had been an eventful as well as a historic proceeding taking place inside a chamber packed full with people including many Sheriff's Department employees.

Earlier in the meeting, the five candidates including four who worked or had worked in management positions under Doyle addressed the board on what they would bring to the position and were later questioned by each supervisor. What emerged from the process was a disturbing portrait of the department's administration and some pretty strong criticisms of that administration made by several supervisors. It overshadowed the contributions and ideas that each candidate proposed to bring to the department that were mentioned in their presentations before the board.

Not surprisingly, supervisors asked Sniff to talk about his firing from the Sheriff's Department last year.

"I've become the poster boy in the removal of 'at will' positions in the Sheriff's Department," Sniff said.

Sniff said that he waived his right to appeal any future termination like other employees in his category which was created for the Sheriff's Department's management positions in 2002. He said that he was given two hours notice of his termination by Doyle's office after 28 years of service and received it because he wanted to run for sheriff in the next election.

"At will individuals would have it exercised against them if they wanted to run for office," Sniff said.

When contacted to answer questions about the board's appointment of Sniff, Doyle's office referred all questions to the Media Relations Division of the Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Herlinda Valenzuela, who was the public information officer who responded upon hearing the information requested said that "all those inquiries are being directed to the county's PIO".

The county's public information's office released a statement on its Web site by Tavaglione.

"Stan is the right choice to improve morale and camaraderie, and to help heal the sheriff's department," said Tavaglione. "He's a man of integrity and will do a tremendous job."

Hill said during her time at the podium that when she had taken the promotion with the caveat of retirement, she had told Doyle that if he changed his mind about those terms, he should tell her. She also said she had wanted to continue the work she had started in the department's correctional system which several candidates and supervisors alike said needed to be the focus of the Sheriff's Department's attention due to overcrowding and federally mandated population limits in the county facilities. That's why she took the promotion even if it would shorten her career, she said.

Hill is the Sheriff's Department highest ranking female sworn employee

She also expressed her concern that there were not enough facilities to treat people who were addicted to drugs and said that there were 22 inmates in the county jails who should be at Patton or other mental facilities which had closed their doors to them.

There were a lot of discussion and even more questions asked the can-

Don't Let Your Teen's Future Go Up In Smoke

It's simple, marijuana and teens are not a good mix—especially when it comes to learning and academic success. We know that all young people face challenges as they grow and mature and that the dangers and temptations of drugs are all around. We also know that as a parent or someone who cares about young people, you want the very best for them; you want them to do even better than you did and lead productive lives.

While overall drug use among teens is down in recent years, there are still too many brilliant young people whose potential is ruined. Don't let drugs destroy their chance of going to college or landing a good job.

MARIJUANA CAN LIMIT YOUR TEEN'S ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

- A teenage marijuana user's odds of dropping out are more than twice that of a non-user.¹
- The short-term effects of marijuana can include impaired memory and ability to learn.²

Parents and family are still the most important influence in young peoples' lives so keep the lines of communication open, set a clear, "no marijuana" rule, stay involved, and continue to discuss the dangers and consequences of drug use. You make the difference. Knowing that education is the key to a better tomorrow, you have the power to protect their potential and help lead them on the road to success.

Let's Work And Vote Together To Elect Milligan, Van Johnson, Tillman, Mulvihill and Clark

Hardy L.

"Let's Work Together" was a song sung by "Canned Heat," a rag-tag group made up of a lead singer who was overweight with long stringy hair and a beard that covered his face. Other members of the band were clean shaven and some looked like they were ready for Harvard, the University of California, Riverside or California State University San Bernardino. The lyrics of the song goes like this:

"Together we stand, divided we fall, come on now people, Let's get on the ball and work together. Let's work together, every boy, girl, woman and man. People when they go wrong and sometimes they will and the road you travel it stays up hill, Let's get together, come on come on Let's work together."

The good citizens of San Bernardino started something two years ago setting the direction they wanted the city to go in when they elected Pat Morris as mayor. We now have an excellent opportunity this November to finish what we started if we "Vote Together". The voters set into motion a clear choice for a more progressive thinking, understanding, collaborative and cooperative government by electing Morris and rejecting the Jim Penman approach to governance. For the past 18 months the council was moving along quite nicely until the Muppet Master Jim Penman, the city attorney, decided to write a policy script for his muppets on the council, to place certain departments under his authority so he could go after parolees. Penman's action put a rift between some council members and widened the gap with the community. Two years earlier, Mr. Penman had tore his britches with the Black and Latino community by suggesting that all council members be elected through city wide voting, thus weakening the vote of Blacks and Hispanics in the ward. Thanks to MALDEF, NAACP and the Black Voice News working together, Mr. Penman withdrew that civil rights voting violation proposal. Two years ago the voters rejected Penman for mayor so "let us work together" to retire Mr. Penman from his twenty years of service to the city.

Let us rally behind a highly capable attorney who wants to "work together" with the city council and mayor. We do not want a lap dog or muppet master in the seat of city attorney. We want someone who understands their role as an attorney and not writing scripts for favorite city council members. We believe Marianne Milligan will bring to the position an attitude of collaboration and clarity in written legal opinions that will help guide the direction and discussion needed for the council to make appropriate decisions on behalf of the city. We know that she will assemble a competent staff and treat them fairly by giving clear direction to other departments which will enhance the city's image. Her experience in other cities gives her a broader perspective on what others are doing in the state. We know she has good judgment because she got out from under Penman as his former employee. BY VOTING TOGETHER LET US ELECT MARIANNE MILLIGAN AS THE NEXT CITY ATTORNEY.

Four years ago the citizens of the 6th Ward elected Rikke Van Johnson over Betty Dean Anderson. There were many reasons why Anderson was rejected, one being non responsiveness to the issues and citizens concerns. Now we know that part of that reason was her close ties to Jim Penman and the police association leaders. During her last campaign she took credit for the Arroyo High School being built. To set the record straight, when I was a member of the San Bernardino City Unified School Board of Education, I got the ball rolling on having the high school located on the westside. The first person I spoke with after we, the board of education, decided to move forward with my idea was Carl Clemons who lives across the street from the school. I knew if Carl was in favor of the idea it would be done. When I left the board it was current board member Danny Tillman who completed the idea. Betty Dean Anderson had nothing to do with the building of Arroyo High School.

Rikke Van Johnson has been very responsive to the citizens of the 6th ward. He has held several community forums over his tenure and continues today. He represents us well as a sought after public speaker. He is an active member of his church and participates in other organizations like the NAACP. He shies away from no issue while still remaining cooperative with the mayor and colleagues on the council. In other words he disagrees without being obnoxious and combative. When he meets with his constituents he looks for ways to be supportive of their ideas. What the city needs at this time is council members who are independent but work together for the common good of the city. LET US VOTE TOGETHER AND ELECT RIKKE VAN JOHNSON AS 6TH WARD CITY COUNCIL.

In the 5th Ward we have incumbent Chas Kelley being challenged by several noteworthy opponents. The incumbent Kelley has been somewhat abrasive and confrontational at the council table when trying to articulate his position. He speaks his mind but only after gaining the approval from his muppeteer friends on the council.

I am familiar with Rick Avila when he ran for mayor. He went to school with our oldest daughter and would make a good addition as a replacement for Kelley, but the best choice is Carolyn Tillman. Her background and involvement in the entire community is just what the 5th Ward and city needs. Her style of cooperative leadership will serve the citizens in the northend of the city very well. Her understanding as an educator will help bring an approach of acceptance when working with the other members of the council. She is well educated and very articulate in her speech and mannerism. She enjoys a diversity of supporters. THEREFORE LET US VOTE TOGETHER AND ELECT CAROLYN TILLMAN TO THE 5TH WARD CITY COUNCIL SEAT.

The 7th Ward seat is currently occupied by Wendy McCamack and is being challenged by Paul Sanborn and Jim Mulvihill a well educated professor from California State University San Bernardino with a PhD in Urban Planning. Now I want to give McCamack credit for fighting for her ward even if it is at the expense of her colleagues on the council. One other thing I recognized about McCamack is she will say whatever Jim Penman and the police association want her to say. She has a tendency to listen to the rank and file officers rather than the police chief. Nothing is wrong with listening but you pay the chief to direct, plan, manage and staff the department. McCamack is another one on the council who is disagreeable while voicing her position which leaves no room for coalition building.

To replace her we are recommending Dr. Jim Mulvihill, who has some well thoughtout plans of appropriate land use, business ventures, stimulating business corridors and policing strategies that will compliment the direction needed for image improvement. He has a rich history of involvement by serving on numerous committees, boards and commissions in the city and county. But his main strength comes from his skill of communication and respect for others. He is not combative but he is determined to have his say with a well thoughtout plan. He is open to other ideas and opinions with helpful suggestions to clarify your thoughts. SO VOTE WITH US TO ELECT DR. JIM MULVIHILL TO THE 7TH WARD CITY COUNCIL.

For City Clerk and the keeper of the records for the city we say stay the course and re-elect Rachel Clark. The wannabe elected leader Joseph Turner is only seeking office to serve himself with old fashioned ideas that resemble the KKK approach to solving problems. Rachel Clark has served the city very well in her terms of service and deserves your vote to continue. LET US VOTE TOGETHER AND RETURN RACHEL CLARK AS THE CITY CLERK.

So in the words of Canned Heat, "Lets Work (vote) Together" and finish the job we started two years ago when we elected Pat Morris mayor and vote for Marianne Milligan for city attorney, Rikke Van Johnson for 6th Ward City Council, Carolyn Tillman for 5th Ward City Council, Dr. Jim Mulvihill for 7th Ward City Council and Rachel Clark for City Clerk.

It's time to fix our streets and railroads

Wilmer Amina Carter
By Wilmer Amina Carter
Assembly Member - District 62

Earlier this month, I delivered the Democratic weekly radio address and emphasized the importance of investing in the state's transportation infrastructure. California is home to three of the country's four busiest ports and one of the country's most elaborate rail and highway networks. All of the cargo moving through the ports means lots of traffic and pollution and improving the state's highways, bridges, railways, and ports will help the environment, and the economy, as well as making travel safer.

While the people of California made the right decision by approving nearly $20 billion of transportation bonds last year, we must also take every step necessary to spend this money wisely. This is the reason why I introduced AB 945 this year, which would provide the information California needs for comprehensive long-term transportation planning. AB 945 would require regular assessments of how money is spent on transportation projects and help identify where our transportation dollars are most needed. These priorities should include many vital projects in the Inland Empire, such as the need to ease congestion on the I-10 freeway and our railroads.

The elaborate nationwide goods movement network goes right through San Bernardino County's population centers and as rail traffic increases in the next few decades, so will the impact on our residents. Perhaps the most significant congestion point is the "Colton Crossing," an intersection of two of the busiest rail lines in the nation. Proposed plans to separate the rails will ease congestion and prevent railroads from idling and polluting our air. It's critical that we take the needs of the community into consideration when we talk about this project, and make sure that the railroad companies contribute so that the burden of this problem doesn't completely fall on taxpayers.

Let's take a critical lesson from the Minneapolis bridge tragedy and not wait until it's too late to improve our system. To keep pace with an increasingly global economy, California must continue taking these important steps to modernize our transportation infrastructure.

Assembly Member Wilmer Amina Carter is chair of the California Assembly Select Committee on Inland Empire Transportation. The committee will soon schedule a hearing in the 62nd Assembly District to discuss local transportation projects and examine possible state funding.

TIME GOES BY SO QUICKLY

was a great joy to me; raising so much money to save babies for March of Dimes along with Rita Rogers, seeing Riverside Community College blossom under Dr. Rotello's leadership during my term as President and being a minor contributor as Al Phinnex directed his Moreno Valley Rockets Track and Field team towards victory. And I'm proud that I was one of the founders of Black Future Leaders and along with Lois Carson we received the White House "C" flag award and we also received another White House "C" flag award for a reference book designed to assist Low Income and Senior Citizens. I also really enjoyed working behind the scenes with another group who chooses not to publicize their goals while working with Federal, State and local politicians to make a significant difference in the Inland Empire.

Also, I was so happy giving the Gas Co. scholarships each year and I wish all the students good luck with their chosen careers. I remember the first day of meeting Dr. Herbert Fischer in his office at San Bernardino High School. And you know what going to the principal means? You have to prove yourself and be a man of your word. Margaret Hill and Dr. Fischer made me feel at home in the school environment.

There were so many organizations, chambers of commerce and business groups I could mention but this document is far too long now. But, you know who you are and I really appreciate the love and support you have given me.

Inland Empire Alive! was a TV show I co-hosted along with Diane Abbott for 10 years. We got a chance to hold original documents hand-written by Abraham Lincoln, items for King Tut's tomb, and we interviewed the entire cast of the Glory of Christmas at the Crystal Cathedral. Thanks Diane, Booker and staff of KCSB TV-3.

I also want to thank some special people, Bob and Donna Eater, Cheryl and Hardy Brown, Jamil Dada, my Gas Company friends especially the people who reported to me, the King Team and the Public Affairs Team. Of course I couldn't forget Assemblywoman Wilmer Carter and her husband Bill, Brian and Michael Townsend and their father, the late Art Townsend, Cindy Roth, Congressman Joe Baca, the late Congressman George Brown and his wife, Marta Brown, Linda Hill, Dr. Fred Workman, Jack Brown, Wallace Allen, the late Joe and his wife, Georgia Wittle, Bill Leonard Sr. and Bill Leonard Jr., Evelyn Wilcox, Judith Valles, the Rheubottoms and the late Harvey Wilson. Also, Senator Nell Soto, Assemblyman Russell Bogh, Jack Wyatt, Bernie and Darby Gutierrez, Ida Roberson, Marion Black, Congresswoman Mary Bono, Roger and Tony Scott, Toni Rodgers, Pastor Ray Turner, Pastor Joshua Beckley and the other pastors who supported me, Beverly Powell, PCM-3, the San Bernardino and Riverside County Sheriffs, The Cunningham Family, The Taylor Family, The Collins Family, The Tillman Family and The King Family.

In addition, I want to thank the many cities and organizations that have honored me over the years; I have been humbled and overwhelmed by their support and confidence in me. Thank you to the cities of Rialto (Mayor Longville) and Perris (Mayor Busch) for having a Jim King Day, July 11, 1991 and March 12, 2005 respectively; the Martin Luther King Visionaries for giving me their most prestigious leadership award, the City of Grand Terrace and the Foundation members, the Riverside Community College for giving me the Riverside Community College 2005 Distinguished Public Service award, The Valley Group, both the Riverside and San Bernardino Boards of Supervisors, my media contacts, and most importantly, Congressman Ken Calvert for reading a proclamation into the Congressional Record in my honor, upon my retirement on March 10, 2005. All of these tributes have made me so proud to be a part of the Inland Empire community.

My stroke in 1992 was a devastating blow, but the Lord was with me and your prayers, cards and flowers kept me going. Even today, I draw on the remembrance of your kindness for strength. During my stroke recovery in Kaiser Fontana Hospital, I was only allowed a few visitors as the doctors feared I might suffer another stroke. Hardy Brown who was then working at Kaiser stopped by to see me on a daily basis. Belinda Woods was working the graveyard shift and came by to see me when she got off work and brought me her son's learning machine to help teach me to talk again. Willie Dean and Evelyn sent me my favorite breakfast foods delivered by Dr. Juanita Scott, cat fish, grits, eggs w/cheese and onions and biscuits. Penny Sweetenburgh-Lee and Gregory Lee gave me a bible. And, Aretha King and Lou Gates did so much for my family during that terrible time.

If you know of a person who has had a stroke, please encourage him or her to keep working toward their recovery. I still struggle with words, both written and spoken everyday, but I am grateful to still be here. It is so difficult to suffer and recover from a stroke in so many ways, emotionally, physically and mentally. At times you get very frustrated and depressed. So, help out as much as possible as my mom helped me out.

If somebody you know has had a stroke, encourage him or her to keep working at trying to talk, walk or whatever functions or skills the stroke has affected. And, try to get them uplifted as depression is a devastating thing. Thanks to my family, all the elected officials, business and community leaders, board members, friends and neighbors who lent a helping hand in my time of need. I am very grateful for your support.

I will miss all of you. Each one of you has been a true friend and may God's Blessing be with all of you.

Happy 96th Birthday to Rev. William Jacks

My favorite pastor Rev. William Jacks celebrated his 96th birthday this past Sunday at St. Paul AME Church where he formally pastored. Although I was unable to attend, I heard by way of my brother Vincent that it was grand. To know Rev. Jacks is to love him with his still winning smile and a joke always on the tip of his tongue. I am sure he enjoyed the day because it was with his friends and at his favorite place St. Paul. Happy Birthday to Rev. Jacks.

even more questions asked the candidates about ethics and a department in turmoil.

Supervisor Jeff Stone said that he was not sure how ethical it was for employees in the Sheriff's Department to contribute to candidates running for sheriff. What alarmed him, he said was that Doyle promptly promoted his political supporters in the department.

Stone asked Lingle, who both served as under sheriff and had worked as Doyle's campaign chairman whether he would give promotions based on qualifications or loyalty.

Lingle said that there was a difference of opinion between him and Doyle in balancing loyalty and competency. He added that on the last round of promotions, he had not been consulted at all.

Tavaglione and other supervisors expressed concern in the direction that the Sheriff's Department was going and the events occurring in the past 2-1/2 weeks.

During that time, an alleged memo titled, "Talking Points to Discuss with Directors" typed under a Riverside Sheriff's Association letterhead was leaked outside the agency. It included statements that Riverside County District Attorney Rod Pacheco, Stone and Ashley were working "behind the scenes" to support Sniff and that Sniff would "clean out the 2nd floor administrative team". Under the category, "Be Strong", the following was included.

"Sniff will end the investigation of the RSA and Rod Pacheco will back his play," the memo stated.

The investigation in question is one of several being conducted by both county and federal agencies to determine whether the RSA leadership misappropriated or misspent funds entrusted to it by its members when it spent them on the legal defense of a deputy who had been terminated by the department. Earlier this year, the FBI conducted a search of the RSA headquarters but no criminal charges have been filed by either agency against anyone associated with its either investigation.

The RSA's leadership responded to news of the allegedly leaked memo with a letter signed by its president Pat McNamara and three other board members and sent to the Board of Supervisors on Sept. 10.

The letter stated that the leaked memo that was allegedly written by McNamara was not written by him at all but was a false document.

The union's letter addressed a statement included in the memo where McNamara had allegedly said that he was up for reelection two weeks before the new sheriff would be selected. However, the RSA's letter stated in response that McNamara had been reelected to serve as union president in July.

The turmoil between three of the department's labor unions and Doyle's administration spilled over into the appointment process of his successor, leaving the supervisors to make a difficult situation. All three of the bargaining units in the department had endorsed Sniff as the new sheriff. Doyle had endorsed Lingle to replace him.

All five of the supervisors agreed on one thing, which was to set their lobbyists loose to ask the state legislators to pass an emergency measure to allow for a special election in March so that the county's voters would be able to pick the sheriff. None of them appeared to believe that would possibly happen. As it stands, the board's appointment will serve out the remainder of Doyle's term which expires in 2010.

Buster cast a vote for Lingle and said that there had been improvements in the Sheriff's Department in recent years and the communities in the county are happy with the department.

"He's already doing the work," Buster said, "Put him in the position."

Wilson agreed, telling the board that the "under sheriff should take over." Wilson called the decision by the board one of its toughest because they were making one that should be left to the voters. In the last election, about 73% of votes cast were in favor of Doyle.

Stone countered, and said the county faced "a department in turmoil," including inappropriate promotions, the selling of badges and other alleged problems. He added that lawsuits had been filed against the county that it would pay millions of dollars to settle. He proposed Sniff as sheriff instead.

"Let the healing begin," Stone said.

Stone said he believed that Lingle's appointment would cause further turmoil.

"The bottom line is that the 3,500 members of the Sheriff's Department will see him as the status quo,"

Stone said.

Ashley agreed adding that there needed to be a "change in the culture" and that "fresh eyes are needed."

Tavaglione broke the tie finally by casting the vote that will determine the course that the beleaguered agency will now take. Whether it will become a smoother path towards healing is a question that only time can answer.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-54) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. Our Bodies

Dr. Ernest
LEVISTER, JR.
F.A.C.P. F.A.C.P.M.

CONSTIPATION

Dear Dr. Levister: I have a problem with hard stools. I've taken over-the-counter laxatives but they don't help. Should I see a doctor? J.A.

Dear J.A. Constipation is a common digestive system problem in which you have infrequent bowel movements, pass hard stools, or strain during bowel movements.

In terms of frequency, what constitutes constipation for one person may be normal for someone else. That's because the normal frequency of bowel movements varies widely — from three a day to three a week. What's normal for you may not be normal for someone else.

In general, though, you're probably experiencing constipation if you pass hard and dry stools less than three times a week. In some cases, constipation also may make you feel bloated or sluggish or experience discomfort or pain.

If too much water from your body waste is absorbed by your intestines or if your waste moves too slowly, you may become constipated. You may also experience constipation if the muscles you use to move your bowels aren't coordinated. This problem is called pelvic floor dysfunction (anismus) and it causes you to strain with most bowel movements, even soft ones.

Fortunately, a few common-sense lifestyle changes, including getting more exercise, eating high-fiber foods and drinking plenty of water, can go a long way toward preventing or alleviating constipation. Try using a fiber supplement, such as oat bran, Metamucil, Konsyl or Citrucel. These natural supplements help make stools softer and are safe to use every day. Be sure to drink plenty of water or other fluids every day. Otherwise, fiber supplements can actually make your constipation worse. And add fiber to your diet slowly to avoid problems with gas.

See your doctor if you experience a recent, unexplained onset of constipation or change in bowel habits, or any of the following signs or symptoms, which might indicate a more serious health condition: Bowel movements just once or twice a week, despite changes in diet or exercise; intense abdominal pain; blood in your stool; rectal pain; unexplained weight loss or pencil-like stools.

To help ease symptoms, Your doctor may recommend a stool softener, such as mineral oil or docusate (Colace, Surfak), to soften fecal matter so that it passes through your intestines more easily. But don't rely on stool softeners on a regular basis because they can cause other problems.

BAILEY, II
M.D., F.A.C.S.

Two big issues pertain to violent America. One is the existence of collective violence being a way of life (Bailey, American Crime) and not only in the Americas but throughout the world—and not only in modern times but from the beginning of European history at least 45,000 years ago. This is easily verified by noting over 37 wars in the last 50 years and by reading "off the mainstream" literature. An example in Violence in America (Graham, p5) says: "Europeans of other centuries often destroyed children they could not provide for." A mindset like this and other savagery were brought to the Americas when Europeans came to claim it in the 15th century, as if the Native Americans did not even exist. Europeans stomped on the friendships of the peaceful residents; deliberately killed their food supply; stole all their gold, silver, and diamonds; and killed and chopped up men, women, and babies (for which they were honored with things like statues). On every rung of the social ladder Euro-Americans seized, held, and realigned the levers of power by means of the gun and every imaginable evil deed. Those in power have always projected their evilness on to their victims and then "made an example" out of them to deflect attention away from what they were doing. Euro-Americans accept this evilness because to them it is normal. What they can not tolerate is any of their victims doing what they are doing.

The second issue is crystallized in the old saying: "If you tell a big enough lie, long enough, and to enough people, they will believe it." This is like looking at a sheet of paper containing a "magic picture"—i.e. a stereogram—which, at first glance, seems to have only two dimensions—up/down and right/left. However, that stereograph is an obvious (façade or false front) picture—an illusion that hides what is really there. Gullible people accept this as is. But Sophisticated people will continue staring at the picture until a mental switch shows them a third dimension—a backward/forward deepness that changes the entire picture—the picture conveying the real meaning.

Since the Renaissance, Europeans have been masters at creating belief changing "magic pictures" (e.g. movie and television delusions) to make them look like a superior people. Gullible people around the world have bought into this and refuse to believe reality—e.g. to believe Europeans are a historically violent people. They are like little children who are more attracted to the sparkling trinkets Europeans dangle in front of them (e.g. the technological developments; the façade "good life") than the treasures which characterize such sound traditions as those of Africa and China. Gullible people absorb such lies as the USA being a democracy and defender of the rights of all its citizens (which has never been true) and follow like sheep follow the shepherd to the doom of their social structure. By contrast, the sophisticated think about the seeds of violence generated by television—e.g. in every other program somebody is holding a gun or there is the glorifying of war (e.g. Hitler) or violent cartoons. Observers notice that in such television series as Gunsmoke, Bonanza, and cowboy movies that the theme is killing or dishonorableness in order to acquire money and power—features of "Flexible Morals." Observers know they can not get the truth from television or newspapers about the part the USA plays in local and world violence and thus they go on the internet where people give a broader and more realistic view of just how violent the USA really is.

Authors' Club Seeks To Assist Teenage Aspiring Writers To Become Published

Richard O.
JONES

There are many teenage music artists, actors, and athletes among African Americans but few published authors. This is not because they are not keen and creative thinkers but because most are culturally conditioned to think that they're limited. Sports and entertainment careers seldom challenge intellectual prowess and is therefore most often sought after and driven by strong commitment. I have met athletically talented young African Americans who were practically good in mathematics but chose to play football because of the fear of failing. The same is true with writing. There are many hip-hop artists and rappers who are also writers, producers, and directors but who would have never aspired to such fields if their hip-hop path hadn't led them there. Black people are creative beyond measure but unfortunately too often we take the easiest road to fortune. The downfall of such actions is that young students come to believe that they can't succeed except through the well-paved road of entertainment, sports, drug dealing, or gang activity. In reality, there are some genius young minds that are being sacrificed out of the fear of failing or being ridiculed by their peers.

Writing is not popular among African American teens. I believe it stems from slavery when Blacks were forbidden to read and write. Yet, some well-known slaves became acclaimed authors and poets such as Phillis Wheatley, Frederick Douglass, Paul Laurence Dunbar, and Booker T. Washington. The art of self-expression is our cultural inheritance. Several African American convicts wrote best sellers from prison without any professional writing experience, for example: Elridge Cleaver "Soul on Ice" "Monster" by Kody Scott, "Soledad Brothers" by George Jackson, and many more. It's unfortunate that so many Black men had to go to prison to discover their innate literary genius. African American youth are a warehouse of literary genius but are too intimidated to explore the possibilities.

When Alex Haley wrote "Roots" in the early 1970s and sold millions of copies, he showed the world that we had more than singing and dancing value. Since that time there has been hundreds of African American best selling authors but very few have been teenagers. Let's break that curse! The lack of the ability to read and write was once used in the South to restrict Black people from voting prior to 1965. Let's begin to read and write more than enough to get

by. This applies to adults as well.

Milligan Books, an African American publishing company in Los Angeles, has published several preteen and teen authors; each one is excelling in school. But that's merely a raindrop in the ocean compared to hundreds of thousands, lacking in school, who are aspiring towards music, acting, and sports careers.

The Literary Soul Food Café www.literarysoulfoodcafe.com is a group of African American self-published authors. We are dedicated to help bring to fruition several teenage or adult published authors. Such a literary accomplishment very likely might open doors for the future.

"WHO CAN EXPLAIN GOD?"
Who can explain God? It takes all of Jesus Christ to explain him. There are hundreds of functions and facets and names of Jesus; the Light, the Ancient of Days, the I am, Wonderful Counselor, the Light of Israel, the chief Cornerstone, the Way, the Truth, the Life and on and on and on. He is the image of God's Person, but it takes every facet of him to reveal fully the glories of the Godhead.

As I close this week praying that this be your best week ever, remember never give up. You may get tired but stay in the race. Cynthia Heald wrote "Freedom From Perfectionism" A lingering weight I carry from my past is wanting to be perfect in order to be accepted by God and other people. Whenever I fail, I tend to want to disappear from the planet. I berate myself and renew my vow never to let it happen again! It encourages me to hear Paul say that he was not perfect and that he would not allow his past to dictate his present behavior (see Philippians 3:12-16).

God certainly does not expect me to be perfect; in a sense he is pleased when I do something right! It has been freeing to me to know that God can break destructive patterns. He can guide us into confronting the deep wounds of our past by giving us wise counselors, faithful friends and his Spirit. He and only he can take away our sin and guilt. God is in the business of freedom and newness, and it is when I acknowledge my past and confess my sin that I can begin to experience his liberty. He gives new lives for old.

BE BLESSED

Describing Your Project to a Contractor

Elmer
THOMAS

When you are searching for a contractor online, with a service such as ThemBid.com, it will save time for you and the contractor if the project is well described with accuracy and detail. This post will give you some guidance on how to write a complete "scope of work", which is the term contractors use for project requirements/description.

Title

Use a brief, but descriptive title. Think about a contractor looking for work that will do a search using a service like Google.com. Will they find your project? Titles such as "Help Needed Now!!!" are useless, instead use "My Washing Machine is Broken, Assistance Needed ASAP". The latter will attract the right contractor and will also convey your sense of urgency.

Description

The first few lines should summarize what you need, making it easy for a contractor to understand.

determine if they need further detail or to move on. Following are some key elements to describe:

- Budget - If you know what you want to spend, otherwise allow the contractors to bid.
- Photos - With ThemBid.com you can upload as many photos as you need for free.
- Expectations - Make it clear what the completed project will look like in detail.
- Timeline - Specify when the project must be completed by. In some cases you may want to set this time earlier to ensure you meet your target date.
- Location - Specify where the work will be performed and any describe any time frames that must be honored (e.g. work can only be performed between 11am and 5pm Monday through Thursday).
- Level of Expertise - Specify the level of expertise you require if necessary.

There will be cases when there are elements that you just can't describe. A contractor that does know the details will use our built in commenting system to ask the right questions or contact you to find out more.

Contact Information

Provide your preferred means of contact, and details about what times are acceptable for calls. Give detailed instruction about what you want to know when they call to keep the conversation structured. Create a template to easily capture the results of incoming calls to make comparison easier, or require the contractor to respond in writing at ThemBid.com and let our service help you choose the best value.

General

- Do not use ALL CAPS when writing your title or description.
- Run your writing through a spell checker and then proof at least once.
- Try searching on the Internet for your problem. You may find some useful information that will help you better describe your issue.

Please send all feedback, topic suggestions and/or questions to TechTalk@AboveTheLimit.com. Digital archives can be found at BlackVoiceNews.com and IngleWoodToday.com.

Hero Mom Speaks Out On Major Dietary Issues

By Ashley A. Jones

Brenda Parker of Rialto has been a spokesperson for the Champions for Change African American campaign for 10 months, where she counsels and encourages families to commit to positive lifestyles by advising them to eat more fruits and vegetables and to include daily exercise in their lives.

Parker has been honored by Rialto City Council for her contribution to the campaign. She has made appearances for the advertising campaign and is featured on the Network DVD, which highlights the importance of engaging in good dieting and physical activity.

Champions for Change is a program presented by the Network for a Healthy California African American campaign. It is intended to serve African American women from the ages of 18-54 in the San Bernardino and Riverside counties. The campaign challenges California families to commit to a healthy lifestyle.

Parker has been married for 17 years and works as a stay-at-home mom. She is a mother of two, one seven and one five. She keeps her family active with daily activities. She said, "We practice healthy eating and physical activity as a family unit. To gain a healthy lifestyle my family and I ride our bikes, swim, skate, and take long walks. We also laugh and dance a lot."

Parker said, "Good health is important because we have so many debilitating diseases that are taking over our children and other families of California. Without good health, you could end up with health issues such as diabetes and high cholesterol. We have to eat healthy, think healthy, and act healthy in order to keep our bodies from deteriorating. I believe in health because I want to live here with my children for a long time."

Parker commits to a family night twice a month. She said, "Two Fridays out of the month I allow my children to pick a healthy dish of their choosing. We gather together and prepare the dishes as a family. Our latest dish was cheese quesadillas with broccoli."

Parker was influenced to be a Champion for Change mom as a result of seeing a need to get the word out. She said, "I have watched so many of our children in the state of California get debilitating health exams. Their cholesterol is high, their blood pressure is high, and they are just children. This program allows me to take an active role in showing families how they can make positive changes in their lifestyle."

Parker concludes by saying the most rewarding aspect of being a Champion mom is seeing positive lifestyle changes in the families. She said, "Through this program I get to be an example and assist families in making positive changes in their household, allowing the families to be in better health."

Today Dental: Helping People Smile

The Black Voice News

Dr. Mueni L. Mutinga

By Shantiqua Stuart

Celebrating its grand opening on August 15, 2007, Today Dental has got off to a great start and is striving towards a promising year. This new facility is a Black owned dentist where all of its staff members share the same philosophy, and that is to provide personal care for and spend quality time with its patients.

Today Dental has a family oriented staff that focuses on the quality care, safety, comfort, and needs of its patients. The staff is synchronized with today's modern technology. They have already upgraded to digital X-rays and have computers in every room. To make things more efficient, they are working towards paperless offices. These alterations will make the dental process easier and efficient for patients.

There are two highly qualified dentists in the facility, Dr. Mueni L. Mutinga, D.D.S., and Dr. Phuong-trinh Nguyen, D.D.S. They perform various dentistry duties, such as preventive, restorative, cosmetic procedures, implants, veneers, porcelain crowns, and tooth colored fillings. Dr. Mutinga graduated in 2001 from Loma Linda University where she received her doctorate degree in dental surgery. In 1997, Dr. Nguyen received her doctorate degree in dental surgery, as well, from the University Of Southern California School Of Dentistry.

The owner of Today Dental, Dr. Mutinga, is a well experienced dentist in the field. She has been in practice for six and a half years and is currently an adjunct faculty member at the Loma Linda University of Dentistry. Dr. Mutinga engages in volunteer work at a clinic in Costa Mesa.

As a child, she was inspired by her first dentist, who was an African American male, to pursue a career in dentistry. He made such an impact on her life because he took the time to explain and teach her about dental obligations, rather than just performing his daily duties.

Since Dr. Mutinga has had a positive experience with her dentist, she too strives to provide personal care for her patients. She believes that one on one attention is important in making patients feel more comfortable with their surroundings. "We try to make it feel as comfortable as possible in the decor, in the environment, in the rooms, ... we have movies playing, ... you can relax ... and we don't over book (in this office) because we give each patient quite a bit of time," says Dr. Mutinga.

In addition, Dr. Mutinga enjoys dental education. She explained that she is always willing to go to classrooms, church groups, and organizations to speak about the importance of dental care and health. "I just want to be able to go out and educate (others) so that there is less need to do as much corrective dental work," says Dr. Mutinga. She further explained that women with oral health problems have been found, in medical books, to have lower birth rates. Therefore, it is imperative and necessary to educate them about the health effects of oral problems because knowledge on the topic may help avert these consequences. Her avid passion for teaching and educating about dental health is genuine and sincere because it is something that she loves and enjoys doing. Dr. Mutinga stated that she would be available and is more than willing to visit any group to speak about the essentials of dental care.

For any questions about Today Dental services, please call the facility at 951-786-9600. They are open Monday through Friday, from nine in the morning to five in the evening, and they are located in Downtown Riverside, at 3701 Market Street Suite E, Riverside, California 92501. You may also visit their website at www.helpingpeoplesmile.com.

Oscar Winner Jamie Foxx Gets Star on Hollywood Walk Of Fame

Jamie Foxx has come a long way from his days as a comedian, spending time on the comedy circuit and doing landmark sketches on hit Fox-TV series In Living Color. Or doing, The Jamie Foxx Show, on the WB Network which celebrates having a five year run. Therefore, it comes as no surprise after Foxx's Hollywood career has taken him to unbelievable heights he should receive the 2,347 Star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

On September 14, 2007 before family, friends and fans Foxx, who won the Academy Award for best actor in 2004 for his portrayal of the legendary Ray Charles received his star in front of the Kodak Theatre in Hollywood.

After garnishing the Oscar, Screen Actor Guild, Golden Globe, SAG Award and the NAACP Image Awards for best actor in Ray, the talented actor went on to claim the same awards in the category of best supporting actor for his work in the dramatic thriller Collateral. Foxx is the first African American to be nominated for two Oscars in the same year and is only the second man in history to receive two acting nominations in the same year for two different movies.

Jamie Foxx has been blazing a trail of success landing a lead role in the screen adaptation of the Broadway musical Dreamgirls, from DreamWorks and Paramount Pictures.

Just as important as his acting career, in addition to his outstanding work in front of the camera, Foxx has achieved a thriving career in music. His latest album Unpredictable was nominated for three Grammy Awards in 2006. Recently Foxx has moved on to new adventures when in Jan. 2007 he announced his partnership with SIRUS Satellite Radio to start his own 24 hour radio station called F o x h o l e. The station is a combination of comedy and music and launched in

May. Foxx can be seen next in his upcoming Universal Picture film, The Kingdom.

John and Willa Woods Celebrate 50 Years

The Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

Long time San Bernardino residents Dr. John Woods, Pastor of Praise Christian Center in Montclair, California and wife, Willa Woods celebrated 50 years of marriage on June 24. It all began many years ago in Nashville, Tennessee while both attended Tennessee State University. John and Willa Woods have four children - son Dr. Reginald L. Woods, Senior

John and Willa Woods

Pastor of Life Changing Ministries in San Bernardino and his wife Nicole, and their children - Brandon, Jason, and Leilani, son Dexter Woods, daughter Regina Prater, her husband Steve Sr. (passed away recently) and her children, Steve Jr. and Raquel, and son Dominic Woods and his wife Jennifer, and four sons, Dominic, Joshua, Jayden, and Jordan.

To celebrate their 50 Year Anniversary, the entire family, accompanied by a few friends took a Western Caribbean Cruise out of Florida and visited the Cayman Islands and Cancun, Mexico. During that time Dr. Jerry Seville and wife Carolyn from Crowley, Texas performed a Wedding Renewal Service.

The celebration is not over. There will be a Wedding Anniversary Reception on Sunday, September 30 at 6:00 pm at the Civic Center Community Building in the City of Chino Hills, 2001 Grand Avenue. The event is open to the public (friends and associates). For more information, call (909) 590-3717.

Event Planning

with Wendy Gladney Brooks

Almost anything can be an event these days. There are events given to raise money, events that raise awareness, and events that are meant specifically to just have a good time. Community events tend to bend more towards raising funds for their operation while bringing awareness to their cause.

I wanted to bring attention to the aspect of "fundraising" because as an Event Manager many of our clients often ask us to help them with Sponsorships. Event Planners are not fundraisers, however, when you've been in this field as long as we have, you tend to know some of the steps and details necessary to assist in this area.

- First, make a list of the companies you wish to target.
- Second, make sure you do some research to find out what type of projects or programs the company supports. You may come to find out they only process requests that deal with education and your program deals with health issues. Don't waste your time or theirs.
- Third, find out the name and title of the person you wish to address the letter. Don't send it to just "Dear Sir or Madame."
- Fourth, see if anyone within your organization or board has a personal contact with the company or individual you wish to send the letter and add their name to the letter as a reference.
- Fifth, after you've mailed out the request letter, follow up with a personal phone call to make sure they received it and see if they have any questions.
- Sixth, if you are trying to build a lasting relationship with the company, see if you can set up an appointment for them to visit your location. If they're not able to come to you, see if you can meet with them at their office. This will allow you to give them more details on your organization's history and programs.
- Finally, if you receive funding, don't forget a follow up thank you letter. Also add them to your general mailing list and make sure they receive copies of your newsletters, etc. It's always good to keep in touch when you're not asking for money too!

Most companies tend to do their budgets for the coming year in September and October. So if you are planning an event in 2008, now's the time to get that request in!

Give your all in all that you do. Then the PLUS won't just be more, it will be the difference!

What kind of future will our children inherit? There's an old proverb that says, "the future casts a long shadow." That means our children's future depends on what we do today - especially when it comes to global warming. We've sacrificed to give our kids advantages we didn't have. But global warming can affect their lives and hopes. It can cause erratic weather, like droughts which can raise the price of fruits and vegetables and severe storms that can drive up the cost of housing and impact jobs.

If we took simple, smart steps, the benefits would be dramatic. For example, if we replace all old cooling systems with energy-efficient ones, it's like taking 275,000 cars off the road! And being energy-efficient can save money too - if we turned up our thermostats three degrees in the summer and down three degrees in the winter we can save up to 15% on our energy bills.

And it's critical that we act NOW. Our children are not our future - we are their future. Visit FlexYourPower.org for information on rebates and energy-efficient products. By helping to fight global warming now, our children can look forward to a better tomorrow.

On Friday Superior Court Judge Edward Webster okayed the Riverside injunction saying, "It's clear to me East Side Riva is a criminal street gang." The injunction would apply to the entire gang – more than 500 documented members, many of them juveniles.

Pacheco argued the Latino East Side Riva is responsible for homicides and hundreds of other crimes in Riverside's Eastside neighborhood, many of which have targeted Black residents.

"It's frightening to me that hard line prison politics and correctional system practices of segregation and alienation among races is now making its way into more urban neighborhoods and becoming the norm," says Riverside adolescent psychiatrist Richard Kotomori.

Kotomori says such aggressive suppression tactics often worsen gang problems by alienating entire groups of people from the police and stocking prisons with thousands of Latino and Black juveniles, many of whom are transformed into hardened gang members while incarcerated.

"Overtime we see these juveniles begin to feel increasingly alienated and volatile.

They see themselves as outside of the system," said Kotomori."

The injunction practice, which originated two decades ago in East Los Angeles, imposes safety-zone constraints. Gang members named in lawsuits face jail time for hanging out together in public, throwing gang signs, or recruiting new members. Members would also be banned from wearing gang apparel and are prohibited from being outside between 10 p.m. and sunrise.

"This is the brave new world of Black and Chicano disenfranchisement," says nationally recognized scholar, researcher and UC Riverside professor of psychology Carolyn B. Murray.

Murray says, ironically there is plenty of support for hard line suppression among many in the Black and Chicano communities. "They argue 'we've got to do something about these gangs', failing to see the long term devastating psychological effects on generations of families and their children."

"Inside these safety zones children as young as six and seven are being assaulted from every angle, abandoned by dysfunctional parents, put to sleep by under performing schools, threatened, taunted and recruited by gangbangers, humiliated and made to feel like animals by police," says Murray.

"There's a prevailing belief among some officers that anyone who acts or dresses like a gang member is a gang member. Literally entire families are being slapped with the gang label because of direct involvement or association.

Basically, these heavy handed practices allow authorities to unilaterally track and harass poor often abused and emotionally fragile kids who stray. It's a life sentence without due process," says Murray.

Once you're on the list, you're shackled for life, says a man in his 30's wearing jeans, a blue tank-top and a black nylon do-rag. He offers a blunt rationale for declining to divulge his name. In 2001 he was one of 29 San Bernardino defendants named in a sixth ward gang injunction. He says he was erroneously branded "active gang member", a claim he vigorously denies. "I'm on the list," he says, referring to the San Bernardino injunction. His employer of 4 years fired him last year after learning of his alleged gang affiliation. He worries that history might repeat itself if his new employer reads his name in the paper. "It's a nightmare that won't go away."

"Somebody who is truly out of the gang and not committing crimes has nothing to worry about," insists Riverside Deputy District Attorney Jack Lucky. "The only people who have something to worry about are people who are members of the gang and engaging in illegal activity."

Still Kotomori believes police should focus more on education, prevention and intervention before making arrests. He points to his involvement in community-based programs in Long Beach that promote healthy identities through cultural and self awareness.

"So that Mexican and Black children don't see themselves as being a burden to society or somebody who is destined to become a criminal or gangbanger, but somebody who comes from a proud heritage and has something to offer society," said Kotomori.

Paysinger admits Los Angeles has not been discriminating enough in dealing with juveniles suspected of being gang members who pose a lesser threat. "We're doing what we can to, as my son says, flip the script." He says new department guidelines call for officers to conduct more visits to homes of suspected gang members to encourage parents to become involved. We've become more discriminating how we apply the law.

"There is a written law and a living law. If you're going to have a written law you should apply it equally across the board, unless there are special circumstances," said Murray.

"Race is not a special circumstance and the system does not apply the rules and regulations equally to all people," says Murray. "Like it or not Black and Chicano families have little choice in his hard line approach to crime fighting but to wake up and take back the minds of our children and our communities or sit back and watch the emerging police state take hold."

UNITY

ing the air.

"The end of selfishness is destruction. What are you doing to make a change? Today you are being challenged to look at your own life and realize you can make this a better world."

King an ordained minister, orator, lawyer and social activist told the crowd, "Unity begins with you."

"The unity that my father was able to create around issues of civil rights came from his oneness with God. We must awaken our soul to repentance – to change our behavior, to examine our deeds, to look into our souls and amend our ways," said King.

She encouraged people to reject the growing global culture of fear, racial and ethnic hatred.

"As humans, the only thing that makes us different is just 1 percent of our DNA; 1 percent," said King.

"We are all humans – in a real sense we are all sisters and brothers. We have to live together as brothers and sisters, or perish together as fools."

In the tradition of welcoming Rosh Hashana the (Jewish New Year) Mark Emerson, 53 of Beaumont, gave nine blows of the shofar (ram's horn) described as the air siren for the soul, the alarm clock for the blasé.

"The shofar is to rouse those who hear it to a higher purpose. Jews, Christians and even non-believers are called to create a 'great fabric' against hatred, intolerance, indifference and despair," said Emerson.

Challenging, captivating, relevant, uplifting and powerful were a few of the words used to describe King's message from the likes of Fontana City Councilwoman Aquanetta Warren and Sixth Ward San Bernardino City Councilman Rikke Van Johnson who attended the celebration.

"Dynamic, real, she brought a powerful thought provoking message to the people," said

Debra Dukes, Candidate for Banning School Board, Rikke Van Johnson and Aquanetta Warren enjoy Unity Day festivities.

Warren. "She made it clear that government has a role to take care of people and people have a responsibility to change the world through non-violence," pointing to King's courage to speak the truth.

"Her words are just in time," said Van Johnson making reference to the highly divisive ways of the San Bernardino City Council.

"I plan to take her message to the council on Monday. All of these people here have one common agenda – unity and bringing each other together. We all have a responsibility to pass the message of self examination and reconciliation," said Van Johnson.

"She articulated and demonstrated profoundly the message of agape – that love is more powerful than hate, and more redemptive than violence and racism," said Todd Oldenburg, a pastor at Legacy Christian Center in Banning and one of the event organizers.

The daylong event, organized by the Banning based Common Impact Group also featured ethnic food, educational booths, entertainment, including Brazilian reggae musicians and colorfully dressed Hmong dancers.

Later members of the Banning Morongo Band of Mission Indians, an event sponsor, summoned Dr. King to the school gymnasium for a traditional welcoming ceremony which included, dancing, ancient chants and the offering of gifts.

One by one tribal leaders gathered around the minister wrapping her in handmade shawls and jeweled ornaments reminiscent of Native unity.

"By digging roots and planting seeds of unity, we rekindle the light and the Dream," said Two Winds a member of the group.

Appearing overwhelmed, King pushed back tears before joining the dancers in a rousing inspirational chant.

"This is a good day. Lord, this is a very good day. Yes this is a good day," she said, "I can see a rekindling of the 'Dream'."

EDUCATION

dents day in and day out," said McLaughlin.

Many still seem to be frustrated by the standards that are set forth by answering to the federal government as well as meeting the state's standards. "Through independent survey California and Wisconsin have the highest curriculum standards throughout the nation," said Dan Evans spokesman person for San Bernardino County Schools office.

While elementary schools have shown the biggest improvement in API scores, middle schools and high schools still need improvement. The other Indicator of student achievement is the California High School Exit Exam (CHSEE) which all students must pass in order to graduate high school. High School exit exam scores for sophomores have shown an increase of students passing. However, African American students have increased their math passing rates from 57% in 2004 to 60% in 2007. The overall passing rate for all students is 72% for 2007, however African

"We have students that are improving, but more students are improving faster than others, we have to help with that gap because these students will be our work force," said Fisher.

As priorities Dr. Fischer's will focus on access and achievement gap, NCLB and program improvement, College-going rates, Career readiness, Williams Legislation and school funding adequacy.

How have we helped
4 million Americans in need?

By never stopping.

50 states. 1,500 cities. 150,000 miles. The PPA bus is traveling throughout the country with one clear message: no one who needs medicine should go without. And in just over 2 years, we've helped more than 4 million people who are uninsured and struggling. Since the program began, the PPA bus—sponsored by America's pharmaceutical research companies—has spent more time in California than any other state. We've been from Redding to Riverside and Salinas to Santa Ana helping more than 230,000 Californians in need. If you or someone you know needs help paying for medicine, call 1-888-4PPA-NOW or visit www.pparx.org.

Monterey Presents 50th Year Hindsight Memorabilia

The Black Voice News

MONTEREY

Music and art have been joined at the hip for 50 years at the Monterey Jazz. That union continues for the golden anniversary presentation of the festival presented by Verizon at the Monterey County fairgrounds Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

Music and visual arts are natural companions and MJF officials have expertly utilized the connection to titillate jazz fans' ears and eyes for half-a-century.

This fall, MJF makes triple history -- celebrating a 50-year tradition of putting jazz legends, pioneers and young lions in the same space for fans' delights, releasing "The Art of Jazz: Monterey Jazz Festival/50 Years" as an entertaining coffee table summary of festival posters, photographs, programs and poetic words, and stirring musical memories of masters with six CDs of 2,000 hours of archival main-stage work.

The latter features seminal trumpeter and jazz ambassador Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, exhilarating trendsetter and trumpeter Miles Davis, straight-no-chaser composer and pianist Thelonious Monk, festival favorite son and stylistic creator Dizzy Gillespie, the divine daughter Sarah Vaughan and "Live at the Monterey Jazz Festival," a sampler of some of the festival's best sets.

"The Art of Jazz by Keith and Kent Zimmerman and designer Jerry Takigawa features foreword by actor/director/producer Clint Eastwood, the ultimate jazz fan long before his film "Play Misty for Me."

Poster reproductions - since their hand pulled silkscreen beginnings to today's offset prints - will feature artists, designers and photographers Earl Newman, Eldon Dedini, Batista Moon Studios, Judy Anderson, Ron Grauer, Harry Briggs, Jeeun Lee and Takigawa.

"As we approached our 50th year, we wanted to have a book that showed literally the 'art' of the festival," said MJF General Manager Tim Jackson. "There have been so many posters that have stuck in our minds over the years, yet they had never been assembled in a single place.

"Some of them are so colorful," Jackson added in a press release from the festival's public relations and marketing office. "Some from the early years approach the twenties' Bauhaus movement, very dark, sparse and minimal. Some are more graphic and some utilize photography with the classic image of the trumpet on the chair. The posters demonstrate the progression of the festival's artistic statement, not just on stage, but how its images have changed over the years.

Dizzy Gillespie

"It honors the people and artists who have made the festival one of the leaders in the world of jazz," he opined.

The book additionally recalls historically memorable images of legendary artists in the photographs of Jerry Stoll, Tom Copi, Ron Hudson, Veryl Oakland, Tony Salazar, Craig Lovell, Cole Thompson and Monterey County Herald photojournalists.

The Zimmermans' narratives dissect, decade by decade, the relationship between jazz music and current events.

The 142-page collectible book costs $50.

The six CDs are the first in a series of historical recordings to be periodically released by Monterey Jazz Festival Records.

Five years after succeeding

MJF co-founder Jimmy Lyons as the festival's general manager in 1992, Jackson launched a 10-year restoration project to transfer MJF audio archives from the original analog tapes to digital files, reported Tim Orr of the festival's marketing and public relations office.

This restoration protects these historical files from deterioration and damage, Orr added.

"Remastered for the best possible sound quality, the performances were analyzed and edited for historic and artistic value," said Orr.

The book and the six CDs are available on the festival grounds on Sept. 21, 22 and 23 and in general book and music stores. More information: www.monterejazzfestival.org.

Mentone Congregational Hosts Successful Christmas in July Campaign

The Black Voice News

MENTONE

At Mentone Congregational United Church of Christ the Christmas season started very early this year. The faithful at Mentone kicked off their first annual Christmas in July campaign right at the Fourth of July, and already they have acquired enough donated food items to supply 17 needy families with Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve dinners.

"Our goal is to supply all the foods needed for Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve dinners for at least twenty families this year," said Rev.

Steven D Jacobsen, the new pastor at Mentone Congregational UCC. "This means we need to get pledges for forty turkeys, as well as many cases of canned vegetables, stuffing, desserts, and so on." So far the response from the congregation has been both enthusiastic and generous.

"We've always provided these dinners to at least a few families each holiday season," explained Mentone's moderator Gerald Ivory. "But because this year we decided with prayer that we wanted to be a more helpful member of our community, we've decided to try to do a lot more. And we are!"

They are still thankfully accepting donated foods and serving items. If you would like to be involved in this ministry of community service, contact Rev. Steven D Jacobsen at 909-794-2893, or drop by during services either on Wednesday evenings at 7:00 pm or Sunday at 10:00 - 12:00 am. Mentone Congregational United Church of Christ is located at 1205 Beryl Avenue, just below the corner of Mentone Boulevard and Beryl Avenue. They are a multicultural, multi-ethnic congregation which is scripture-driven and gospel singing, and they welcome everyone into God's family.

Dr. D.C. Nosakhere Thomas

The Black Voice News

FONTANA

This year Rainbow Community Praise Center International of Fontana will combine its anniversary with recognition of its membership October 12 and 13 with its 12th Anniversary and Apostle Appreciation Celebration.

Says Senior Apostle, Dr. D.C. Nosakhere Thomas, "We want to reconnect all those who have been involved with the church and who have been instrumental in its development this past dozen years. And we want to let the community know," he adds, "that we are a community church. As much as we are a part of the community, we want the community to become a part of our church that weekend."

The theme for the celebration is "Exceeding in Abundance," from Ephesians 3:20. This exciting event will take place at the Victoria Gardens Cultural Center's Celebration Hall, 12505 Cultural Center Drive in Rancho Cucamonga.

Leading off the elaborate weekend is: Youth Explosion

- Friday, October 12 at 7 p.m.

Recording artist Karen Wiggins and the Rainbow Community Praise Team will open the evening with a phenomenal praise and worship service. "Karen

Wiggins is one of the most anointed praise and worship ministers I have
